Promoting fun, health and fitness by encouraging walking and biking to school.

Let's get Pennsylvania kids moving again! It's fun. It's healthy. And it's good for the environment.

Join schools around the country that are successfully encouraging children to walk and bicycle to school regularly through Safe Routes to School programs.

Safe Routes to School (SRTS) is an international effort with federal funding designated to reverse the decline in the number of students who walk or bike to school and improving the health and safety of our communities as a result.

Heading up the SRTS initiative in Pennsylvania, the Safe Routes to School Academy is eager to provide you everything you need to implement a program in your community. This website will give you all the background and information to get started.
